Student's Voice

As I reflect on my time at the college, feel grateful for the incredible journey that began in 2023. Fast forward to today, my experience has been nothing short of outstanding.

With respect to academics, the teaching happened seamlessly . While we faced several challenges in our journey, our Professors have always helped us immensely in overcoming those obstacles and have been with us through our highs and lows . They have always been there to help and support us in the process of learning. This college has also given substantial importance to various co- scholastic activities, cultural events and competitions giving us a whole new experience and enabling us to showcase our talents and bring out the creativity from within. Our teachers have also been instrumental in helping us discover and develop our unique talents. There have also been several opportunities at various intercollege events .

This provided us immense exposure to the outside world and has served as a good source of learning and experience. These efforts have not only helped us gain practical experience but also helped identify our individual talent. To sum up, just as the name of our college, the institution has taken suitable steps to ensure the success of every individual.

From the first day since I stepped onto the campus floor, I was filled with excitement and hope, it has become a second home shaping unforgettable memories and connections.

Student's Voice

Avani
2023-25

My college is more than just a place of learning -it's a world filled with experiences, friendships, and emotions that shape who we are. Every morning, as I walk past the gates, I'm greeted by the ever - smiling watchmen uncles, whose warmth never fails to brighten my day. Beyond the entrance lies a space that has become an integral part of my life, a place where I've encountered incredible faculty members who not only teach but inspire . Each professor brings something unique to the table, whether it's an engaging teaching style, an endless well of knowledge, or an unshakable belief in our potential . They challenge us, push us beyond our limits, and somehow still manage to be our biggest cheerleaders .

Then, there's the library- my sanctuary on days when I need an escape. With its towering shelves filled with books on almost every subject imaginable, it's a paradise for any reader. The collection is massive, and every time I step in, I find something new and fascinating. From textbooks to novels, from philosophy to Science fiction, the library is a treasure trove waiting to be explored. Of course, no college experience is complete without friends, and mine are nothing short of amazing. We navigate the ups and downs of our college life together, standing by each other through stress- filled with exam nights, last- minute project submissions, and the occasional heartbreak. But where there are people, there's drama, and ours is nothing short of interesting.

There's always some new story unfolding, adding to the memories we'll laugh about years later. Our classroom is where it all comes together -a space that holds so many memories, both good and bad. It has witnessed our excitement on the first day, our nervousness before exams and our exhaustion after long lectures. The walls have heard our whispered conversations during class, the scribbled notes passed around, and the collective sighs of relief when a difficult lecture finally ends. It's where we've celebrated birthdays, planned impromptu outings, and formed bonds that feel unbreakable. And then, there's the shared exam stress- a universal experience that brings us all together. The frantic revision in the corridors, the desperate last minute doubts, and the relief of finishing a tough paper these moments define our college life as much as the fun ones do. Speaking of fun, our in - house competitions, Sports Day, Annual Day bring out the best in everyone. Whether it's a debate, a dance competition, or a friendly sports match, the energy is infectious. Vibrant week and Ethnic Day are highlights, where we showcase our cultures, dress up in beautiful traditional outfits, and click endless pictures. And then there's our favourite canteen - the ultimate hangout spot. Speaking of fun, our in - house competitions, Sports Day, Annual Day bring out the best in everyone. And then there's our favourite canteen - the ultimate hangout spot. It's where we debrief after exams, celebrate small victories, and spend hours chatting over chai and samosas. My college isn't just a building; it's a chapter of my life I'll cherish forever.

C A Sesa Sai Vishnu K R

I'm extremely proud and honored to share that I got qualified as a Chartered Accountant in the May 2025 exams. This achievement is the result of my years of dedication, and it all began at Vijaya Bifr. PU College, where I completed my 12th grade. I later pursued my Bachelor of Commerce at Vijaya Evening College, which provided a strong academic foundation and helped shape my professional journey.

The name "Vijaya" itself means "victory"—and true to its name, the college played a victorious role in my life. It isn't just a place of learning; it is where I absorbed values that continue to guide me today. Discipline, resilience, and integrity are not merely taught—they are lived. The culture at Vijaya Bifr. PU College emphasizes consistency over shortcuts, efforts over excuses, and character over credentials. These values became the backbone of my journey, helping me stay grounded through challenges and focused on long-term goals.

A heartfelt thank you to all the faculty members, mentors, and staff at Vijaya Bifr. PU College and Vijaya Evening College. I'm grateful to have been part of this institution and carry its legacy with pride.

Key takeaways from my journey:

1. Focus on your efforts without being attached to the outcome.
2. Don't expect—just experience. Every moment teaches something valuable.

SPOTLIGHT

Prof. L K Srivatsa's Dedication to BHS HES Institutions:

Prof. L K Srivatsa has dedicated 36 years of his life to serving BHS HES, starting from August 1st, 1990. Throughout his illustrious career, he has held various esteemed positions, which includes serving as a Chemistry Lecturer for 25 years, Head of the Department for 9 years, Vice Principal for 5 years, and Principal for 1 year. His unwavering commitment to the institution and its students is a testament to his passion for education and leadership.

A bird's view of his journey has been captured in this interview

1. How do you recall your long service in this institution?

I look back on my years here with deep gratitude and pride. This institution has not only been my workplace but also a family in which I grew personally and professionally. The journey that shaped me as an educator and administrator.

2. How did your journey from lecturer to principal shape your understanding of the institution and its needs?

Started as a lecturer, which gave me first-hand experience of academic life in the classroom. As I took on responsibilities in working in various committees like Examination, Science, Sports committees, etc., I gained a broader perspective on how the institution functions at multiple levels. This progression taught me that the needs of an institution go beyond academics.

3. What were some of the most significant challenges you faced during your transition from one role to another, and how did you overcome them?

Each transition brought its own challenges—managing colleagues being a senior faculty member, balancing teaching with administrative responsibilities and making difficult decisions that affected students and staff. I overcame these challenges by listening carefully, seeking advice from all the stakeholders and making unbiased decisions.

4. How did your experiences in different roles prepare you for your responsibilities as a principal?

Every role equipped me with valuable insights. As a lecturer, I learned the art of teaching. As a head of department, I understood the importance of teamwork and resource management. By the time I became principal, I had already seen the institution from multiple perspectives, which prepared me to make appropriate decisions.

5. What do you believe are the most important contributions you've made to the college during your tenure, and how will they continue to benefit the institution?

Some of the contributions I take the most pride in are following a systematic and disciplined approach in academic programs. I believe these steps have laid a foundation that will continue to help the institution to adapt and grow.

6. How did you foster a sense of community and collaboration among faculty, staff, and students?

I always encouraged collaboration by involving faculty members from various departments to work in academic and co-curricular committees for overall development of students. I believe that everyone's opinion is to be taken into consideration.

7. What changes or innovations did you introduce during your tenure that you believe had the most significant impact?

Making proper presentation of lectures and providing the necessary study materials to the students and making aware of the their responsibilities in life and career in general and academics in particular.

8. How did you balance the needs and expectations of various stakeholders?

Balancing needs constant communication and prioritization. Students often sought support; faculty needed recognition and resources; administrators expected accountability. I approached each of them with transparency and fairness, ensuring that decisions were well explained and in the long-term interest of the institution.

9. Can you describe your approach to fostering a democratic and transparent environment within the institution?

I encouraged participatory decision-making by involving faculty members in various committees, sharing plans openly and considering their grievances and suggestions.

10. What were some of the most rewarding experiences you had during your career?

The most fulfilling moments came from seeing students succeed in their careers and alumni share their achievements. Also witnessing faculty and staff grow in their abilities.

11. How do you think your experiences and perspectives will continue to benefit the college after your retirement?

After my retirement, I feel that the established systems, values and culture will be continued and nurtured from time to time.

12. How do you envision the college evolving in the future, and what role do you hope it will play in shaping the next generation?

I see the college adopting more technology and practices that are need of the hour, which will enable to improve society's greater acceptability towards the institution. I hope such initiatives will play a major role in making students not only earn degrees but also become sensible, compassionate and responsible citizens.
